

FUUSM is one of more than 350 UU congregations across the country participating in the Climate Justice Revival. The Revival is a different approach to collaboratively thinking about complex problems like climate change. Through a series of dialogs, we'll share OUR visions for climate justice in our community, and examine the intersections between climate issues and other injustices that UUs have worked to change for many years, sharing new possibilities for moving forward together to take action. There are plans for folks of all ages, and all activities are free!
