

The smallest may be Perl Totman's carving of a dog. The largest, Elin Jone's 12 foot tall dragon with a 20 foot wing span. And many creations in between.

Donations are being pursued of items required for a quality community event, but some money will be necessary for items that can't be begged, borrowed or found for free.

Our generous members and friends already have committed to donating:

10 containers of paint valued at $70 from Laurel Hobden for our youth art project May 6. Laurel also is offering four of her social justice banners and has given an hour of free consultations and advice.
